Permit 'Bottleneck' Is Broken By Bethel

Bethel Council broke the "bottleneck" on the issuance of commercial building permits last week by taking the matter out of the hands of the Planning Commission and giving the final word to the Borough Engineer and Building Inspector.

The "speed-up" will apply only to the commercial area along Route 88 and the land owned by the Pittsburgh Western Land Company in Coverdale.

Complaints had arisen from developers that shuffling specifications between Council and the Planning Commission was causing a delay on permits and loss of prospective tenants.

One developer, Dr. David C. McNary, president of the Pittsburgh Western Land Company, went as far as to take his case to County Court.

As matters stand under the new procedure a building permit will be issued following approval of specifications by the Borough Engineer.

An additional control point is held by the borough in the issuance of an occupancy permit. This will hinge on the approval of the completed building by the building inspector.

JUST IN CASE YOU WANT TO KNOW

If elected to Mayor in Bethel Park Borough, I will try to:

1. Run the Mayor's office as it was originally intended.
2. Stop constant bickering among elected Borough officials.
3. Study the problems of the Police Department and recommend any changes or additions necessary.
4. Work closer with the citizens and be available when needed.
5. Cooperate with State, Federal and other local governments to the advantage of Bethel Park. This is very important concerning South Park.
6. Sponsor anything which will promote Borough cooperation with fire department, youth groups, Civil Defense, schools, and churches.
7. Study proposals for increased services in areas such as commuter facilities, garbage collection, Utility companies, Polio Vaccination, news coverage, etc.

Thank you in advance for your vote,
